

SAINT PAUL LUTHERAN HIGH SCHOOL

THE SCHOOL

The school was established in 1883 as St. Paul's College and was patterned after the old German "gymnasium" classical educational system (a six-year program). Originally, the school was to prepare young men for the ministry in The Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod. Because of its rigorous course of study and high success rate among its graduates, Saint Paul attracted students with other vocational interests as well as international students from all over the world. Saint Paul's accreditation is through the North Central Association (NCA) and National Lutheran School Association (NLSA). Saint Paul Lutheran High School received "Exemplary Status" recognition for the 2011-2012 academic year through the National Lutheran School Accreditation Commission (NLSA).

Saint Paul is committed to the academic success of its students. Continuing with the strong tradition of preparing students for post high school education, Saint Paul offers over 90 college preparatory courses. In addition to and in place of AP courses, Saint Paul provides up to 36 hours of Concurrent Courses taught by Saint Paul and sponsored by the Concordia University System (Seward, Nebraska). Saint Paul provides a rigorous, college preparatory high school program with 98% of Saint Paul students accepted to four-year colleges and universities. Saint Paul utilizes SAT/ACT test preparation within individual classrooms. The average SAT score is 1550 and an average ACT score is 24.3. The academic school year is divided into 2 semesters, with each semester consisting of 16 weeks of classes including an assessment period. Many courses are yearlong and some are semester contained. Students are normally expected to carry 7 to 8 courses each semester. All courses meet five periods a week with the exception of religion courses and physical education courses. Religion courses meet three days a week and physical education courses meet two days a week.

Saint Paul's academic program is based upon the assumption that students are capable of studying independently, responsibly, and with self-direction. As a result, students spend a great amount of time on homework, class assignments, and other out of class projects.

In order to meet the college preparatory diploma requirements, class time and homework together can be expected to require six hours per week per course. A typical student enrolled in seven to eight courses can expect to spend at least 42 to 46 hours each week on academic pursuits. At times, students will spend more time when significant papers are due or when they need to prepare for exams.

SPLHS CURRICULUM, COURSE OF STUDY, AND CONCURRENT COLLEGE/HIGH SCHOOL CREDIT COURSES

Saint Paul's Curriculum, Course of Study, and Concurrent (College/high School) Credit Courses are online at <http://www.splhs.org/Curriculum.html>.

Saint Paul Lutheran High School Concurrent Credit Program

There is a difference between concurrent credit and AP test scores.

Earn High School and College Credit

The Concurrent Credit Program is sponsored by Concordia University, Nebraska (CUNE) and brings together professors and classes of Concordia University, Nebraska and Saint Paul Lutheran High School.

With the Concurrent Credit Program at Saint Paul Lutheran High School, successful junior and senior students have an opportunity to get a jump-start on college. The program provides Saint Paul with the information and support that they need to teach college-credit classes at the high school allowing students to earn college credit at a reduced cost before graduating from high school. The Concurrent Credit Program offers courses found in the general education requirements of many colleges and universities. Because Concordia University, Nebraska is an accredited university, this credit is the same as credit awarded to on-campus students and can be transferred to other colleges in the same way. Students participating in the (CCP) can start their college careers with a number of courses already completed and save money while doing it.

Through the program, university/college level credit is given for selected courses taught in high school by CUNE approved SPLHS teachers.

To enroll and learn about the courses offered through the (CCP) as well as learn about the registration process, check with assistant principal, Mr. John Beerman.

Concurrent Credit Program Tuition Rate

Tuition for the 2013-2014 academic year is set at $120.00 per credit hour. Students may also be required to purchase necessary books.

Differences between Concurrent Credit and AP test scores.	SPLHS Concurrent Credit	AP Advanced Placement
Are university letter grades awarded to students and recorded for credit at the university?	Yes	No
Is the classroom instructor required to have at least a Master's degree in the subject being taught?	Yes	No
Do classes provide a broad subject-based curriculum?	Yes	No
Is there direct accountability to national, state and local educational authorities?	Yes	No
Does an educational institution with national academic accreditation manage the program?	Yes	No
Is "credit" for the class awarded to students based on single test scores?	No	Yes
Is the program managed by corporate entities, which have no academic accreditation or standing?	No	Yes

Saint Paul offers over 90 college preparatory courses. In addition to these courses and in place of Advance Placement (AP) courses, Saint Paul provides up to 36 credit hours of concurrent courses taught by CUNE approved Saint Paul teachers.

The Concurrent Credit Program differs from AP test scores. Concurrent Credit students take a college course, earn the number of credits assigned to the course, and the grade earned is a weighted grade for the course. The weighted grades give the student an opportunity to increase their overall high school grade point average (GPA) as well as greatly enhancing their college and university applications. Students receive a transcript from the university. Concurrent courses are considered in the college admissions process.

Students enrolled in Advanced Placement courses have the option of taking an AP Exam. Based upon test scores, credits are awarded by the university they attend. If the student's AP test scores do not meet the university's cutoff scores for college credit, the student has the option of re-taking the AP examination to increase their test score or scores. Depending on the university, AP test scores may or may not be used for the college admission process.

By taking concurrent courses beginning your junior year of high school, you have the opportunity to earn from a semester to a year's worth of college credit before entering college. College credits are a fraction of the cost they would be on the actual college or university campus and you can gain experience in college work and expectations in a Christian high school environment.

Saint Paul welcomes students and parents to visit Saint Paul Lutheran High School. Parents and students are welcome to stay on campus in Biltz Hall during their stay. Students are encouraged to stay in our dormitories overnight and shadow a student the next day. A campus visit is very important prior to making a decision to have your son or daughter attend Saint Paul. You will meet our teachers and students, take a campus tour and visit classrooms. You will have the opportunity to ask questions, talk about a potential class schedule, and learn all you can about Saint Paul Lutheran High School.

The Importance of Christian Education in Today's World

All schools teach, but only a few inspire. Saint Paul aims to be among the latter. We want more for our students and more from our students than just what is needed to get a high school diploma. We aim to inspire, enlighten and awaken students to a love for learning and a quest for wisdom. Wisdom begins in the fear of the Lord, so we make respect for God and His Word foundational to all that we teach and do on campus. The wisdom of God's Word undergirds and informs every class and campus activity. Without that foundation we might still offer a better education, but it would not be worth the effort or expense. It is only as we imbue our subjects, our speech, and our students with the divine worldview that our school has meaning and purpose. In the light of the divine worldview, students are equipped to think rightly. The framework afforded by the Biblical revelation enables students to transcend the relativity of our age. They learn right from wrong, true from false, and worthy from worthless. A student's inspiration to continue learning comes from possessing this objective framework by which to rightly assess the world around him. Our God graciously bestows divine truth through His Word. That Word teaches us about heaven and salvation and grace and faith. But it also provides the clear and correct framework by which we can rightly understand the world around us. Thank God for Christian education.

Rev. William C. Heine

The Importance of a Worldview and why it plays such a pivotal role in Christian Education...

"It will be the framework for human thinking. Worldview is all about making decisions about what ideas you will think about, embrace, and apply to your life. A Christian worldview is about discovering the ideas, thoughts, values, and perspectives of Jesus Christ. It is applying these concepts to our lives in such a way that Christ can be woven into the fabric of our lives." Ham, Ken & Dr. Greg Hall. Already Compromised. Green Forest, AZ: Master Books, 2011. Print

The question is, when it comes to our children, what worldview are they embracing?
